We Use the Franklin Printing Price List

The man who buys printing and wants to pay a fair price for it, can be guided by the list. The printer who charges the prices in the list will receive a fair margin of profit, doing the work in an efficient manner. The price list means marking the prices of printing in plain figures, easy for the printer and buyer to understand. No gouging. A fair price.

VOLSTEAD ACT HAS NO EFFECT ON GAMBLING

Police Reports of Eighteen Cities Show Prohibition Has Little Result on Vice.

DICE FAVORITE SPORT

Eastern Cities Show Increase Over Average in West—Quaker Town Plays "African Golf."

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Prohibition of whiskey wines and beer has had little or no net effect on the prevalence of gambling throughout the United States, according to reports furnished the United Press by police authorities in eighteen cities.

Replying to the question whether there was decrease or increase of gambling—such as racetrack betting, poker playing, crap shooting and the like—nine cities showed opinions that there was a decrease, while nine said gambling had increased since the country went dry. In nearly every city, however, officials said shooting dice was the favorite sport of a large majority of gamblers, with poker, bookmaking and baseball pools following in order.

Following is a digest of the replies from the police and local authorities: New York—Gambling has increased here within the last year. Police and raids have been in the former tenderloin plainclothes men have made more arrests than in the past. Craps, poker, lotteries and bookmaking have appeared to be the favorite forms of gambling. Most of the police raids have been in the former tenderloin district, where also there have been numerous raids on bootleggers.

Chicago—There has been a decrease in gambling in Chicago, according to Chief of Police Garrity. There have been practically no complaints of poker playing or bookmaking, but "African golf" (craps) games have been discovered scores of times on the Lake front.

Philadelphia—Gambling here is on the decline, said Superintendent of Police Mills, who was inclined to credit the condition to greater police vigilance rather than to an actual falling off of the "sport." Shooting craps leads in popularity. Arrests have been few.

Boston—There is a slight increase in gambling here, police say. Poker and craps appear to be running a neck and neck race for popularity. While there have not been more than a dozen main raids in a year, police assert they have encountered more gambling this year than formerly.

Cleveland—The gambling fever has hit the old and young, the strong and the weak, police say. "Everybody" is indulging, they said, and the net result in Cleveland is there is a "tremendous" increase in gambling here. Police have been busy arresting professional gamblers, but family "affairs" have for the most part been unmolested.

Detroit—Gambling is on the increase here. Police declare most arrests in the last year have been race track and crap gamblers.

San Francisco—Gambling has increased "heavily" here in the past twelve months the police say. Dice, poker, Chinese lotteries and racetrack betting have been the subjects of most frequently raided "parties."

Washington—Proximity of racetracks to Washington have made betting the chief form of gambling here, police said. Generally speaking, however, they said gambling has shown a "marked" decrease in the past year.

Indianapolis—Chief Jerry Kinney of the local police declare gambling has increased here in the past year. Crap shooting leads all other forms of amusement, he said. There have been few poker games raided.

Atlanta—"Mississippi marbles," "7 come 11," or just plain craps have furnished most of the amusement in Atlanta, where gambling has decreased in the period since prohibition, said the chief of police. Most of the "arrests" have been negroes.

St. Paul—There are practically no gambling "joints" in St. Paul and gambling has decreased, police say. Numerous raids on slot machines, poker games and the like have "cleared 'em all out," he declared.

Dallas—Most of the gambling here recently has been among negroes and workers in neighboring oil fields. The "amusement" has been quite a slack, however, police say. Police have heard reports of fabulous sums said to have been won or lost in the course of an evening's sitting around a "pair of bones," but few arrests have been made.

Columbus—Police here have been carrying on a campaign against gambling in any form, and as a result there has been a noticeable decrease in gambling. There have been several recent raids or downtown "mushroom" joints, however.

San Antonio—Poker and craps lead in popularity here as "ruffneck" gambling amusements, while dominoes flourish in the clubs and homes. On the whole, however, there has been a decrease in games of risk.

Oklahoma City—Wine and beer gambling is increasing here. Poker for the old folks and "galloping dominoes" for the younger generation are the favorite forms.

Springfield, Ill.—Fan tan, craps and poker games abound hereabouts, police declare. There has been a "big increase" in gambling in the past year, they say.

Lincoln, Neb.—Chief Anderson said here is "little or no" gambling here.

Annisston, Ala.—Arrests for gambling have fallen off here in the last year, police said. "Rolling the bones" is the favorite form of indoor sport.
